

Bio-Energetic Assessment.

This fully automated cut-edge hardware and software bio-energetic screening system assists the health practitioner with information about the energetic origins of health challenges.

The function of Quantum Biofeedback is similar to a virus scan on a computer. Bio-energetic testing measures energy like an MRI or CT scan but is less invasive and is measured through hair, and in person.

It finds the energetic imbalances of organ systems, stressors such as pathogens (latent and current), nutritional imbalances, and possible allergens, by calculating the biological reactivity and resonance in your body.

This data offers an understanding of your needs, dysfunctions, and vulnerabilities.

Results from this assessment give the practitioner a deeper insight into the root cause (s) of your condition and guidance in resolving energetic imbalances and disturbances. This unique process does not use information to diagnose. Instead, biofeedback assists our understanding of what areas in your system are working efficiently and where you may need support.

Based on your results we will provide a regimen to balance your system so your body can return to homeostasis (balance).

Bio-energetic assessment helps to address the following:
